

MadePartners wins AustCham, Australia-China Business Award

Hong Kong – Rail industry Quality Management and Inspection newcomer, MadePartners Limited is celebrating its success in claiming the Business Excellence Award for Start-up Enterprises at the AustCham, Australia-China Business Awards (ACBA) at a gala awards dinner.

The ACBA's are now in their 22nd year and are an annual showcase of business excellence for Australian and Australian-owned Chinese business operating in Greater China. Each year the Australian Chambers of Commerce in Hong Kong, Shanghai and Beijing form a single judging panel to identify and reward the leading companies operating across a range of industries in the Australia China business corridor.

The Start-up Enterprises Award recognises young Australian companies that have performed with excellence and achieved outstanding results through creative initiatives in Greater China.

Paul Belcher, CEO of MadePartners, said: "Its been an exciting and challenging first two years for MadePartners and I am delighted that the dedication and commitment of our team in Greater China have been recognized with this award. We've been fortunate in having some of Australia's largest and best-known mining companies and rail operators engage MadePartners to deliver best in class quality management and inspection outcomes for their Chinese procurement projects."

Andrew Steadson, Executive Chairman of MadePartners, added: "This type of recognition really underscores our strong belief in the future of MadePartners as we accelerate our plans to broaden the service offering for our clients in Australasia, the Middle East and Greater China."
